Business analysis is a very interconnected, linear process. There are a lot of feedback loops, but at the core is enterprise analysis: which talks about business casing, understanding the business problem, and solution assessments. You want to recommend a solution that's going to solve the business problem. As a BA you also have to elicit requirements, to communicate, and to understand and pull information out. You have to manage that information, but most of all you have to plan. Guide to the Business Analysis Body of Knowledge (BABOK v3 Guide) is the only globally recognized standard of practice for business analysis. A Guide to the Business Analysis Body of Knowledge® (BABOK® Guide) for feedback and comment. That version included an outline of the proposed content and some key definitions. Version 1.4 was released in October of 2005, with draft content in some knowledge areas. Version 1.6, which included detailed information regarding most of the knowledge areas, was published in draft form in June of ...
