The English word war derives from the 11th century Old English words wyrre and werre, from Old French werre (also guerre as in modern French), in turn from the Frankish **werra*, ultimately deriving from the Proto-Germanic **werz?* 'mixture, confusion'. Fourth-generation warfare (4GW) is conflict characterized by a blurring of the lines between war and politics, combatants and civilians. The term was first used in 1989 by a team of United States analysts, including paleoconservative William S. Lind, to describe warfare's return to a decentralized form.
