The State of Texas--Appeal from 6th District Court of Lamar County](#) Appellant Charles Ray Diaz appeals from his conviction for aggravated assault with a deadly weapon. In one issue, Diaz contends the trial court violated his confrontation rights under the United States and Texas Constitutions when it granted two motions in limine requiring him to approach the bench before questioning a State witness about the witness's prior deferred adjudications. Because Diaz did not preserve this issue for our review, we affirm the trial court's judgment. Search Court Record information about Charles Ray Miller v.
