The following op-ed by Hanne Nabintu Herland concerns the Norwegian government's persistent soft spot for the Palestinians. It was originally published in Aftenposten, Norway's largest newspaper, on January 15th, 2013, and has been translated by the author. The Government of India's Famine Commission Report (1945) described Bengal as "a land of rice growers and rice eaters". Rice dominated the agricultural output of the province, accounting for nearly 88% of its arable land use and 75% of all crops sown.
