Winner of the Francis Parkman Prize, Society of American Historians "A tour de force. . . . No one has ever written a book on the Declaration quite like this one ...Danielle Allen is a political theorist at Harvard University and a contributing columnist for The Post. She is a former trustee at both Amherst College and Princeton University. I think that using "equity" helps people to feel that they have not failed when they do not reach full equality, and also helps them to screen out a lot of disagreement that is irrelevant to their practice right now.
