JCPenneyPowerLine.com is the brainchild of JCPenney, that was created back in 2009, so that its army of more than 100,000 employees can easily access information such as their: pay stubs, employee benefits, 401(k), leaves, work schedules, taxes, etc.; from office or outside of the office. What to do if I lose my JCPenney credit card? Credit cards are not something big like furniture or your car that they would also be in front of you and it is almost impossible to lose them. In 2009, JCPenny introduced JCPenneyPowerLine.com with the intention of facilitating online access to employees from home or wherever they might be. This article reviews the pros and cons of a JCPenney card. If you're thinking about applying for a JCP card, keep these things in mind before signing up.
