Assisting Students with Foreign Language Learning Difficulties in School. By: Leonore Ganschow and Elke Schneider. The question of why some students seem to learn a foreign language with ease while others struggle has plagued both foreign language and special educators, especially in recent years. The National Joint Committee on Learning Disabilities (NJCLD) 1 strongly supports comprehensive assessment and evaluation of students with learning disabilities by a multidisciplinary team for the identification and diagnosis of students with learning disabilities. Classrooms can be perilous in a number of ways for students with learning disabilities. Here are some tips to remember when working with students with LD. "People with goals succeed, because they know where they're going." -- Earl Nightingale "High achievement always takes place in the framework of high expectation."
