

Download The Portland Cement Association

Portland Cement Association. 5420 Old Orchard Road; Skokie, Illinois 60077-1083; 847.966.6200 ; 1150 Connecticut Avenue, NW, Suite 500; Washington, DC 20036-4104 Portland cement is an essential component of most types of concrete. The PCA is headquartered in Skokie, Illinois, but they also have several regional offices, including one in Washington, D.C. The Portland Cement Association works to expand and diversify the uses of cement and concrete. As a result, they hope to facilitate economic growth and foster job creation in the concrete and construction industries. Portland Cement Association is a non-profit organization that promotes the use of concrete. The organization conducts and sponsors concrete research projects, [4] participates in the setting of industry standards of cement manufacturing, [5] [6] disseminates free designs of concrete-based architectural structures and its elements, [7] etc. Cement – the main ingredient in concrete – plays a critical role in America’s infrastructure. Safe, strong and efficient infrastructure is the backbone of the U.S. economy, as transportation networks built with concrete connect large and small business to the global economy.