Capitalism is an economic system based on the private ownership of the means of production and their operation for profit. Characteristics central to capitalism include private property, capital accumulation, wage labor, voluntary exchange, a price system, and competitive markets. In his award-winning book WATER, Mark de Villiers provides an eye-opening account of how we are using, misusing, and abusing our planet's most vital resource. Sub-Saharan Africa has a wide variety of climate zones or biomes. South Africa and the Democratic Republic of the Congo in particular are considered Megadiverse countries. The following op-ed by Hanne Nabintu Herland concerns the Norwegian government's persistent soft spot for the Palestinians. It was originally published in Aftenposten, Norway's largest newspaper, on January 15th, 2013, and has been translated by the author.
