What a pleasure to join Heather Lewis Land's classes in Arizona for a Skype session on events in Sudan and When The Stars Fall to Earth Great to e-meet Bandak Lul, too. When the Stars Fall to Earth is a very eye-opening novel about the horrific violence and deaths that occurred in the genocide in Sudan. Rebecca Tinsley did a phenomenal job of taking the stories she heard while in Darfur refugee camps and molding them into the characters of this novel. Every reader's heart will break while picturing the terrifying events that innocent Darfuris experienced. Rebecca Tinsley, former BBC reporter and founder of Network for Africa, talks about her novel about 5 children who survived the genocide in Darfur.
